

TENNESSEE HAPPENINGS

Provision has been made for a 1-year course in connection with the Rutherford high school this year.

Mrs. Dossie Gould of Nashville, was elected president of the Tennessee State Association of Nurses at the final session of the sixteenth annual convention while Chattanooga was sojourned at the next convention city.

Dr. C. W. Somerville of Memphis was elected moderator of the state synod at the meeting of the First Presbyterian church at Jackson, and Rev. R. G. Scott of Nashville was chosen temporary clerk.

The annual convention of the Tennessee Real Estate Association will be held in Memphis, Oct. 26-27, and it is expected that realtors representing every city in the Volunteer State will attend.

Carroll county teachers held their first meeting of this school year at Huntingdon and perfected an organization for the year by electing Prof. Moody of the Huntingdon High School as chairman of the association and Miss Williams secretary.

Thousands of bushels of sweet potatoes are being housed by Carroll county farmers. Plows are running in most every potato field and hundreds of hands are being employed in picking up the potatoes and placing them in hampers ready for storing in the houses.

The reports as received by Commissioner T. E. Peck, from correspondents over the cotton producing section of Tennessee for September, indicate a further deterioration, and from various causes the crop in the state will be reduced to approximately 150,000 bales. Several estimates place it even below these figures.

All Trezevant high school boys and girls were given a chance to attend the Carroll County fair at Huntingdon.

Bryant Choate, charged with the killing of his father, Tom Choate, near Jasper, Tenn., several months ago, was found guilty of second degree murder and given from 10 to 20 years in the penitentiary.

J. Walker Blankenship, aged about 55, a painter, shot Mrs. J. M. Looney, 34, keeper of a boarding house at Cotton Mills, near Humboldt, at the latter's home. After shooting Mrs. Looney twice, Blankenship put the gun to his own head and fired, but sustained only a scalp wound. Neither of the wounds inflicted on Mrs. Looney are regarded as serious.

Jenouay was given by Mrs. Alice Schneider of Memphis as she surrendered to the police with her hands blood-stained, as the reason for her confessed attempt to put an end to Mrs. D. T. Nettles' life. Mrs. Nettles was discovered by neighbors in her cottage near the Normal school, with a deep gash cut in the back of her neck, after her two children ran for help.

Major R. E. May, one of the most prominent citizens of the county, died suddenly at his home in the Nineteenth district near Huntingdon from angina pectoris. The family were preparing to come to the opening of the Carroll county fair when the fatal attack occurred. He was about 60 years of age and highly esteemed by a large acquaintanceship.

The medical societies of Obion and Dyer counties, Tenn., and Fulton and Hickman counties, Ky., in an all-day joint session at the Walnut Log hotel, on Reelfoot lake, and formed an organization to be known as the Walnut Log medical society, to be composed of physicians of Northwest Tennessee and Southwest Kentucky for the combined purposes of scientific advancement and social recreation.

Declaring that men in this world get what they want, what they really work for, and not what they merely dream about, Bishop Gallor, chancellor of the university, speaking to the student body during the exercises of foundation day, called upon the students to uphold the traditions of Sewanee, and to have the purpose and the courage of the faith and the vision of the founders of the university and to seek the big things of life.

Jesse Gordon, 50, night watchman, lost his life and cotton worth $550,000 was destroyed at Dyersburg when the Memphis compress plant was destroyed by fire. The alarm was turned in by the night foreman of the cotton gin adjoining the compress, and in a few minutes after this alarm the entire plant was a mass of flames. Seven cars on a side track had loaded with cotton were also destroyed.

The body of Malone Thurman, a farmer living near Melville, in the Sequatchie Valley, was found in the kitchen of his home by a neighbor who was attracted to the place by not having seen Thurman for more than a week. The man had been shot in the back of his head by a lead of buck shot. A coroner's jury decided that the man had been murdered by being shot from through the door of his house. The man lived alone, his mother and sisters having moved to New Mexico recently.

We Wanted A Change.

(Not what we expected from the head of a nation); But we wanted a change and we got it.

We were prosperous and happy well fed and gay; Now millions of children go hungry each day; But we wanted a change and we got it.

Meanwhile we hear this: "It was certain to come—" "Reaction from war time"—and war three years done! If we wanted a lemon we sure did pick one. Well, we wanted a change. Now we've got it!
